FLORIDA MINISTER EXTENDED CALL TO MAYSVILLE CHURCH

Church of the Nativity Extends Pastoral Call to Rev. J. J. P. Perry, of Florida—Reply is Anxiously Awaited By Congregation.

The vestry of the Church of the Nativity has extended a call to Rev. John J. P. Perry, of De Funiak Springs, Florida, to become their pastor and the members of the congregation are anxiously awaiting a reply to the call which is expected most any day.

Rev. Mr. Perry is most highly recommended by prominent churches throughout the Southland who are acquainted with his work. Besides being a very highly polished student, he is said to be a most forceful speaker and a very strong personality. He is a man over fifty years of age and has had considerable experience. His children are grown and his family now consists of himself and wife.

Dr. Perry has been extended a call from a California congregation but it is thought that he will accept the local call and will be able to be on the field in a short time. The local church has been without a rector for several months and the members of the congregation are quite anxious for a resumption of regular church services.

CANDY CANE TO HELP BARBOUR STAND UP

Boys' Band and Its Management Are Treated By Lexington Candy Manufacturers.

The Lexington Leader says: Officers and members and accompanying guests of the famous Maysville Boys' Band were guests Thursday morning of the So-Good Candy Company at the factory on Vine street.

The boys and girls watched the process of making candy with much interest, and each visitor went away laden with the product of the plant. Harry Giovannoli, president of the Lexington Boy Scout Band organization, who was with the party, on request extended a few words of welcome to the band members and their friends. He called attention to the fact that the So-Good Company shipped daily to one company, the Kresge Stores, over six hundred cases of the big stick brand alone, and that this candy was one of the home-made products which are making Lexington famous. Mr. Giovannoli, on behalf of President Frank Hagerty and Manager C. B. Stewart, presented to Colonel Russell a giant candy cane, with the hopes that it would enable him to stand up under all of the honors and compliments paid to him and his band during its presence in this city.

OUR BAND IS LOUDLY PRAISED BY FAIR GOERS

People Attending Blue Grass Fair Are Profuse In Their Complimentary Remarks on Our Great Band.

Thursday night's Lexington Leader said: To stop near the grandstand at the Bluegrass fair grounds and watch the expressions on the faces of passersby as they pause and exclaim, "Isn't that some band," or, "That certainly is splendid music," is to realize that the Maysville Boys' Band, better known as the Kentucky Cardinals, is proving to be one of the attractions of the fair program.

Organized in February, 1919, by the man who is now manager, Colonel J. Barbour Russell, and other interested Maysville citizens, to give all school boys of that city who desire it a free education in music, this group of musicians is perhaps one of the most unique in the country. At the present time the band is composed of forty-one pieces, the age of the musicians varying from 10 to 17 years and averaging 13 1/4 years.

The only requirement for membership in the band is that its members purchase the best instruments available, according to Mr. Russell. The boys are trained under the direction of George D. Barnard, of Ardmore, Okla., a prominent musical director whom the "Musical Messenger" calls a "doctor" of music because of his ability to put the finishing touches on pieces written by various composers.

That the organization is accomplishing its purpose in giving the Maysville boys an education is shown by the ability of the soloists in the band at the present time. Chief among these is J. Barbour Russell, Jr., 14 years old, and the son of the band manager. Young Russell plays the cornet and so popular was his playing at the Sunday night concert that he was compelled to respond to three encores, playing "Humming" for the first, "Marge" for the second and "Whispering" for the third. Another prominent cornet soloist in the band is Allen Wood, also a 14 year old boy.

At Christmas a real Santa Claus visits these boys for at that time the proceeds gathered by the organization in its different concerts is divided among the members. All expenses of educating the boys in music are paid by Maysville people and in turn all concerts given by the band in that city are conducted without charge.

In order that the boys may receive the best of care in making their various trips the band employs automobiles for transportation, engaged the best hotels and carries a physician, Dr. P. G. Smoot, to look after their health. In cases where the band is on a trip when Sunday arrives those in charge of it see that the boys avail themselves of the opportunity of attending Sunday school or church, Mr. Russell said.

The band is trained for concert work alone and consequently does not march. Two distinct types of uniforms are used, the blue ones being worn during the day and the red coats and white trousers at night.

Up to the present time this year, the band already has played at four fairs, including the Bluegrass fair. Others on the schedule were the Ohio State fair, where the band was rated as one of the best on the grounds, the Ewing fair and the Germantown fair. Many requests are made for the band to play in different cities and at the present time contract to take the band to Syracuse, N. Y., and San Francisco, Calif., are being considered.

Mr. Russell, as well as other Maysville people who have attended the Bluegrass fair to see their home town band play, are strong in their praise of the hospitality shown the boys while here. The band has been extended the privileges of the Country Club, has invitations from the Lexington Club and in addition has been entertained by various local concerns.

As an added attraction on the program being given by the band it will be joined Saturday by the sub-band of forty-seven pieces which is known as the "Horse Shoe Band," and is composed of boys who have been trained six months only. This band will give separate concerts and also will join the large band in giving a joint concert.

The wounded man was brought to Dr. Bertram's office where his injuries were given attention, during which time he was very sick. Butler has been in a number of scrapes while Carrington has never been known to have trouble with anyone before. The officers left for Carrington's home at Clarksburg shortly after it happened but he was not there and has not been heard of since. Following the recommendation of the Woman's Club that the city schools be inspected by experts, there has been much said about the proper examination into the health of the city school students. The examination of school children is nothing new in Mason county and Dr. V. D. Guitard, County Health Officer, Friday morning issued this statement to the public:

By virtue of his appointment the County Health Director is the Medical Inspector of the schools of the city and county. This inspection is now in progress. The Eastland school was inspected Friday, and the pupils of other schools will be examined as rapidly as possible consistent with thoroughness.

STEAMER RAID UN- COVERS LARGE QUAN- TITY OF BOOZE

Five Persons Are Wounded in Raid on Greek Steamship Which Carried Large Quantity of Contraband Liquors.

New York, Sept. 9. — Five sailors were shot and wounded in a battle with prohibition enforcement agents aboard the Greek steamship King Alexander at her wharf in Brooklyn today.

The raiders, after a desperate struggle, overpowered the seamen and seized alleged contraband liquor worth $50,000.

Drugs valued at $75,000 also were confiscated, the officers announced.

The raid on King Alexander is the latest blow in the new campaign launched here against bootleggers. Further raids are expected within a few hours.

Acting on a tip that members of the crew of the King Alexander were involved in a plot to smuggle contraband liquor and drugs into this country, 15 prohibition agents swooped down on the ship at her wharf at the foot of Atlantic avenue.

They approached the ship in a launch and lay in the shadows of the wharves while Ralph Hayler and Peter R. Reaver, agents, posing as prospective purchasers of liquor, went aboard the vessel.

Hayler and Reaver were negotiating with sailors when a lookout spied the launch crowded with officers. He gave the alarm. A moment later those in the launch heard a rattle of shots from the vessel.

They leaped from the launch to the pier and rushed the gangplank.

WILSONISM WAS NOT AMERICANISM.

In an article which has recently been published by many Democratic papers the prediction is made that in the next election "the American people will return to American policies and to the Democratic ideal of equal rights to all and special privileges to none." This undoubtedly means a return to Wilsonism but if there was anything American in Wilsonism the people of this country by a seven million plurality failed to observe it.

As the first act of his administration President Wilson proposed the repeal of the free tolls provision which gave American coastwise shipping free passage through the Panama Canal. He did that at the instance of some foreign power, presumably Great Britain, and for reasons which he never confided to the American people. The next great act of the Wilson administration was the enactment of the low tariff law, the beneficiaries of which were the manufacturers of Great Britain and Germany, the wool growers of Australia and South Africa, the cattle and corn and sheep producers of Argentina, the lemon growers of Italy, the nut growers of Spain, the dairymen of the Netherlands, the lumbermen and wheat growers of Canada, the cattlemen of Mexico, the peanut and rice producers of the Orient, and the other producers in foreign fields who were able, because of low cost of production and low standards of living, to undersell the American producer in the American market. What return to Americanism would there be in a return to that phase of Wilsonism?

Another act of the Wilson administration early in its period of power was the suggestions to Americans who had gone into Mexico in pursuance of rights guaranteed by international treaty that they should abandon their property and leave the country. This is the sort of Americanism that would be involved in a return to Wilsonism. While the Wilson administration was less than two years old when the war broke out in Europe and as an incident of that conflict the Lusitania was sunk, carrying down with it a number of Americans who were exercising their rights as citizens to travel on that ship. A few hours after the sinking of the Lusitania and with the news still heralded in the headlines of the press, President Wilson proclaimed the United States "too proud to fight." Is that the sort of Americanism to which the Democratic press desires to return?

In 1916, taking advantage of a crisis when all the energies of the nation were exerted to fulfill our industrial demands the famous four brotherhoods of the railroad world demanded that Congress pass a certain wage increase law by a certain hour in default of which they would strike and tie up the entire railroad system of the nation. At the behest of President Wilson the Democratic Congress passed the law. It is this sort of "special privileges to none" and the type of Americanism to which the Democratic press would return?

When the war was over and it came time to negotiate terms of peace President Wilson participated in the framing of the treaty which included in its provisions a surrender of American independence to the dictates of a league of nations in which this country would not only have a very minor voice but in which another nation would have six votes to the United States' one. This too, we assume, is the sort of Americanism to which the Democratic press desires a return.

Fortunately the judgment of the American people is radically different from that of the Democratic press.

BUSINESS REVIVING, MELLON DECLARES.

A general revival of business and industry is under way in the United States, according to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and to reports being received by the federal reserve board and other agencies.

Reserve board reports indicate that the general revival in buying and commercial activity generally is greater than at any period since the depression of last September began.

Every department of the government is watching the business situation with the keenest interest because of the fundamental problems involved, particularly that with regard to unemployment. A continued stagnation of business and commerce would carry into the winter months thousands of working men minus jobs and consequent suffering and want.

General improvement in the railroads situation is regarded by officials as presaging a betterment in this direction.

GOING AT IT.

A syndicate headed by Charles S. Keith of Kansas City has recently purchased for $7,000,000 a tract of 27,000 acres of timber land in Oregon, said to be the best tract of timber in the world, and before the deal had been transferred he had ordered 500 men put to work getting the logging road ready for operation. Looks as though men of successful business ventures in the past have a very optimistic view of the immediate business future.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington. — Commenting on a question raised by the New York Times, The Republican Publicity Association through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourner, Jr., issues the following:

"Has the time arrived when it is safe for a railway to rely upon the goodness of its cause in the forum of public opinion?" asks the New York Times, which is Democratic in its politics but not so democratic in its ideals. The answer to the question is easy. The time has not merely arrived—it has long been here. It is and long has been—perhaps always has been—safe for a railway or any other concern to rely upon the goodness of its cause in the forum of public opinion.

"The American people believe in a square deal, and always have. Where there is a lack of full information, the people may act unwisely, but that is no fault of theirs. The wisest man who ever lived would make mistakes if compelled to act without a full knowledge of facts. But give the people of the United States a fairly good understanding of the issues involved and the facts on both sides, and they will reach a conclusion as sound and as fair as would be reached by a commission composed of selected men, who, very likely, would be influenced by prejudices which do not actuate the average citizen.

"Our assertion that the people can be trusted to decide fairly a question submitted to the forum of public opinion, is not a mere ipse dixit, nor an attempt to flatter the average citizen. There has been a demonstration which justifies the confidence we have expressed. A few years ago there was enacted in Missouri what was known as the 'full crew' law—an act supposed to be in the interest of railway workmen and against the interest of railway owners. It provided for the employment of not less than a certain number of men on a railway train, the number varying with the length and character of train. The railway owners asserted that the number required by the law was unnecessary. The spokesmen of the railway workers got the law through, nevertheless, and it was submitted to a vote of the people under the referendum.

"The railway managers were scared. They thought the people would look at the issue this way: The enactment of this law will give employment to more people, it will give us better service, and the railways will have to pay the

SUFFERED SIX YEARS

Mrs. Stoll Tells Women How She Found Relief From Pain

Philadelphia, Pa. — "I suffered for six years with pain every month, had vomited, and was unable to do my work. I read in your little book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took the medicine with satisfactory results. I am a mother and my daughters take it. You may publish these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. LOUISE STOLL, 609 W. York St., Phila., Pa.

It is not natural for women to suffer as did Mrs. Stoll, and in nine cases out of ten it is caused by some displacement or derangement of the system which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes, because it acts as a natural restorative.

Every woman who is subject to cramps, headaches, nervous spells, backache or those dreadful bearing-down pains should profit by Mrs. Stoll's experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and if there is any complication write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., about her health.

But the people do not look at it that way. Just what their line of reasoning was, no one can tell, but the 'full crew' bill was overwhelmingly defeated by popular vote.

"Probably some voters opposed it because they thought it unfair to the railroads. Others opposed it because they figured that ultimately the increased cost of operating the roads would be passed on to the shippers, to which class they belonged. But what, generally agreed by well-informed men to be unwise, was defeated by the people. Which shows that then, some eight or ten years ago, the voters of Missouri could be trusted—and the census reports do not indicate that Missouri is any more intelligent than the average American state.

"All that is necessary for the railroads or any other class to do is to get their facts fairly before the people, and there can be no doubt as to the verdict of public opinion."

Harlan. — Dora Daniels was bound over to the grand jury under $500 bail on the charge of having five gallons of whisky in her home on Poor Fork.

STUDIO SHOTS.

Harry Myers, who plays "Sir Boss" in the William Fox production, "A Connecticut Yankee," is an inventor. Beside turning out several contraptions to make work easier on his California ranch, he has invented an automobile siren.

In "Singing River," William Russell's latest picture for William Fox, the star has a new leading woman in Viola Vale, who has appeared in several screen productions made on the coast. Miss Vale is of the brunette type, full of vivacity and is a good foil to Russell.

Taylor E. Duncan, who plays an important role in "Queen of Sheba," the big Fox spectacle, was a captain of coast artillery during the late war. The company was organized in Hollywood and was composed of motion picture actors, writers and other professional people.

While he admits he is partial to classic roles, a little change of work never hurts anybody, declares Arthur Carewe, well-known stage and screen actor. Mr. Carewe has been engaged by William Fox to play a principal role in support of Buck Jones in a Western picture—something entirely new for the actor.

William Russell in "Singing River," and Buck Jones in "To a Finish" are two August releases by William Fox. Shirley Mason is also to be seen in "Ever Since Eve."

"Footfalls," the prize winning story of the O. Henry committee, which was produced for the screen as a special by William Fox under the direction of Charles J. Brabin, has been set for release on November 13. It will probably have a Broadway run before being sent out over the country. Tyrone Power and Estelle Taylor are the leading players.

Rosemary Theby, who created quite a favorable impression in "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," is playing a principal role in Zane Grey's "The Last Trail," which Emmett J. Flynn has just completed at the Fox western studio. Maurice Flynn the famous football star, has the leading male role.

They clung to the tubes until the life guards were able to reach them, but were unconscious when brought ashore. They were soon revived.

New York Letter

Lucy Jeanne Price

New York. — New Yorkers are deeply interested in the new Commonwealth Hotel on which construction is well under way on Broadway at 55th street. Occupying the whole block between 55th and 56th streets, Broadway and Seventh avenue, this is to be the greatest hotel in the world. With 2,500 guest rooms and the height that will place its towers above everything in the vicinity, the Commonwealth will be one of the seven wonders of the American metropolis. Particularly notable is the plan upon which the hotel is being erected, which is on a club basis, each member sharing in the ownership. Today there are more than 25,000 members and the number is rapidly increasing. The hotel is to cost $15,000,000, and at the rate property is increasing in value along Broadway will be worth more than $20,000,000 within five years. Appreciation of this fact is shown by the many applications received for membership in the club from those who understand real estate values in New York. Members of the Hotel Commonwealth Club will stay at the hotel, paying the usual rate, on which they will receive a rebate of 20 per cent. In addition, all buying done in the city can be through the 200 stores affiliated with the Commonwealth, all of which allow generous rebates. Hundreds of Club members are daily obtaining rebates from these stores, and it is estimated that the aggregate monthly saving is well over $100,000. Hotel owners here are keenly watching the new hotel and attribute the astonishing success of such a novel promotion to the untiring efforts of W. J. Hoggson, who originated the enterprise. Completed, the Commonwealth Hotel, situated in the heart of New York, will set a new standard of comfort, convenience and profit making. All New York hotels are habitually over-crowded, and it is expected that the Commonwealth, with its thousands of members, will be the most popular hostelry in the city.

There have been cruel things done before this in New York politics. But the latest gesture of the anti-Tammany Democratic ticket leaders seems to be rubbing it in a bit more harshly than usual. They invited Charles F. Murphy, Big Boss of Tammany, to attend his own funeral procession. It was one detail of the James J. Hines Committee parade staged the other day, and Mr. Hines himself wrote a considerable letter to Mr. Murphy explaining to him the purpose of asking him to come and watch — from the sidelines, the large black automobile hearse, on which rested a casket, supposed to contain Mr. Murphy's political remains. The women of the anti-Murphy group of Democrats marched in that particular part of the parade, close to the hearse, so as not to embarrass any of the men marchers who might be holding city jobs at the present time.

Who would ever think of costumes back in 2640 B. C. as being anything much at all? I never can remember when it was that our skin-clothed ancestors romped about the earth any more than I can ever remember the year in which the earth is expected to burn up or freeze to death. But certainly I wouldn't have expected that carefree date to have been much further back than 2640 B. C. And now here comes an exhibition at Cooper Union institute for which Bertha Beres has reproduced the SILK costumes worn by the historic characters of that year! And from then on up to 300 A. D. They are going to be worn at the next Beaux Arts Ball, so just fancy what a perfectly innocent scandal one might start by announcing that she was to appear in a costume of 4000 years ago! I'm sure a good many other people are just as ignorant of dates as I.

Probably the largest parole sentence ever pronounced in this city—country, I believe. — is that which was given the other day to William Owen Gibson by Judge Rosalsky. For FIFTEEN YEARS, he must report regularly to the judge. He pleaded guilty to grand larceny but has made part restitution and promised to pay back the remainder.

—NY—
The "artistic temperament" is being demonstrated to the full in the season's new plays. The latest and best—of the expositions is "Daddy Goes A-Hunting," by Zoe Atkins, in which Marjorie Rambeau is starring. It is the story of a commercial artist who goes to Paris for a year and comes back quite changed. No longer is he "commercial" enough to work and earn a living and no longer is he "commonplace" enough to continue caring for his wife and child. He wants "freedom" — and takes it. He grants it also to the wife. And she uses it when she finds her husband is tired of her, and goes to a lover. Out of sympathy for his weakness she returns to the husband, but it is useless. The play, in spite of its rather ordinary sounding outline, is done with realism and conviction.

RED CROSS GIVES AID TO POISONED AT STATE FAIR

American Red Cross Gives First Aid To Those Poisoned at Columbus Fair.

Columbus, Ohio. — On the state fair grounds here, where its great national convention will be held October 4-8, the American Red Cross during the annual agricultural exposition the week of August 29, performed a service that brought forth unstinted praise from Governor Harry L. Davis and State Director of Agriculture L. J. Taber when close to 150 persons stricken with ptomaine poisoning at a luncheon on the fair grounds were given first aid treatment at the Red Cross emergency hospital.

That many lives were saved by the promptness with which first aid treatment was given at the Red Cross tent was the opinion of state officials who personally thanked the Red Cross workers for their heroic service.

Scenes reminiscent of war days overseas were enacted at the Red Cross emergency hospital shortly after the first of the ptomaine sufferers were rushed there from the luncheon given by the International Livestock Exposition to more than 200 livestock owners, exhibitors and employees.

Red Cross workers, volunteer physicians and nurses and Boy Scouts cooperated in a splendid manner, as a result of which practically everyone of the poison sufferers had been declared out of danger by the morning following the luncheon.

Although the emergency hospital equipment was taxed to the limit, the 12 beds being continually in use for hours after the first victim was brought to the tent, there was not a bit of disorder or confusion, so thoroughly were the Red Cross and other workers prepared for such an emergency. When the four ambulances loaned during the fair by local citizens were found inadequate—other cars were pressed into service to carry the scores of sufferers to a Columbus hospital.

State guardsmen drew a cordon around the Red Cross hospital and kept clear the route of the ambulances in order to expedite handling the rush of first aid cases which was the greatest ever experienced at the Ohio fair grounds, and probably never exceeded at any other similar gathering in the country.

Drs. W. D. Hoyer, John E. Monger, and J. M. Griffith, who were constantly on duty until the last of the poisoning victims had been cared for, praised the service of Miss Margaret Steel, a Red Cross nurse who was overseas during the war, and the four volunteer workers, Mrs. J. L. Baker, Mrs. T. J. Davis, Mrs. H. S. Shotwell and Mrs. J. G. Ray.

"It was a wonderful demonstration of Red Cross service and efficiency and I want to personally thank all of you Red Cross workers, workers, nurses, Boy Scouts and others," said Governor Davis. State Director of Agriculture Taber said: "We always have appreciated the Red Cross, but our hats are certainly off to them tonight. Its representatives performed a Herculean task in a most admirable manner." Just a few steps from this scene is the Coliseum in which the sessions of the Red Cross convention will be held next month.

SINGLE WOMEN PROTEST JOBS OF WEDDED ONES

Topeka, Kas. — There is a row in Kansas between single women and married women who work. Miss Linna Brette, head of the Kansas welfare division of the Kansas Industrial court is getting many letter from young girls and unmarried women protesting against married women "with visible means of support" continuing to work and taking the jobs away from the young girls and in some cases from men. Some letters are quite bitter. Some of the writers claim the married women are cutting the wages of the single girls.

Of the 80,000 women working in Kansas two-fifths are married or have been. Records early this year showed 23.2 per cent of all the women working in the state were married and 17 per cent were widowed or divorced, divorced meaning those deserted or separated as well as legally divorced. A year previous at least one-half the total women employed were married women. The railroads forced women who were married and were not actually supporting dependents to retire, thus removing a large number of married women from jobs.

The letters received by Miss Brette show the single women believe no married woman should be allowed to work. Many of the single women would make marriage a bar to all industrial activities of women if they could.

They are writing the Industrial court about it to see if there isn't some law to prevent married women from working. But there isn't any such law, an dthe court cannot make any order which would defeat it. The individual employer is the only one who can change the situation.

"It is hardly fair to the working girls to have some young married woman come in and underbid them for their jobs," Miss Brette said. "We know this does happen with some frequency. There are many girls who marry young men who are traveling a good deal. They have little to do and would rather work than be lonesome around the house. They don't need the money, and they frequently do go into offices and offer to work for less than the unmarried girls are getting. This has a tendency also to cut down the general average of wages, which is unfair, as most of the women workers are working to actually earn money for themselves or dependents."

"But there are a large number of married women working whose husbands are unable to support them as they desire, or who have dependents in their own or their husband's families, which make it necessary for them to work."

"There is a large percentage of married women working who have crippled or invalid husbands. It would be unfair to attempt to make a general prohibition against married women working, as there are many who are as deserving of employment as single girls."

"In the recent survey of women in industry in Kansas, it was found that married women actually exceed the number of single women in the meat and poultry packing industries and that one-third of the laundry workers are married women. The restaurants have a majority of divorced or widowed women over single or married women workers."

WOMEN'S WOES

Maysville Women Are Finding Relief At Last.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Keeping the kidneys well has spared thousands of women much misery. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. E. L. Cullen, 322 West Second street, Maysville, says: "Three years ago I had an attack of kidney trouble and my back ached continually. I had no ambition to do my housework and everything seemed a drag to me while going about it. I had blinding, dizzy spells and my head ached all the time. My kidneys were not acting regularly and in other ways showed signs of disorder. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I sent to Wood & Son's drug store and got a box. After using them I got over the trouble entirely and have never since been bothered. I willingly recommend this remedy."

EILEEN PERCY HAS A SURPRISE PICTURE.

In providing Eileen Percy with a hole in which she is called upon to play several different parts, Carl Harbaugh, author and director of "Hickville to Broadway," a late August release by Fox, has provided the fascinating young star with exceptional opportunities. To the audience Miss Percy always is the charming little village maid, Anna Mae Niel, though posing intum as a beautiful artist's model and a masquerading woman of wealth and social prominence in New York. The purpose is to test the love and the character of her village swain.

"Hickville to Broadway" is characterized by even more striking contrasts than the title itself suggests, and is replete with surprises.

FINED $10 FOR TOTTING BOOZE TO FARRAGUT STATUE

Boston, Mass. — Whether or not Admiral Farragut used intoxicating liquor may be a debatable question. But Judge Logan of South Boston court is certain the Farragut statue in City Point is bone dry. Hence Benjamin Porter of 28 Union street, Holliston, who declared he was directed to leave twelve gallons of liquor at the statue, was fined $10.

SCOTLAND CENSUS SHOWS INCREASE TO 4,862,000.

London. — The preliminary report of the Scottish census just issued shows gives the population of Scotland as 4,862,000, including 2,348,000 males, and 2,513,000 females, the gross total representing an increase of 121,000 over 1911.

Every Scottish census has shown an increase in population, which is now fully three times greater than that of 1601. The male population has increased 1.7 per cent, and the female 2.3 per cent, since the last census. Never previously has there been such an excess of women over men.

Ten thousand people speak only Gaelic, this figure representing a decline of 8,000. Practically all of these live in Ross, Cromarty, Inverness, and Argyll counties.

PART OF HEART CLIPPED BY BULLET IN ROCKCASTLE.

Mt. Vernon. — Information reached this place that Robert Rowe shot Hughey Cromer in the county, the bullet clipping off part of the heart. Cromer was still alive when the report was sent. No particulars of the tragedy could be obtained.

CORN RECOVERS JULY REVERSES; NEARS RECORD

Weather Conditions Cause Jump of 154,000,000 Bushels, According to Grain Report—Wheat Crop Shows Decline.

Washington, Sept. 9. — Recovery of the corn crop during August from the serious damage caused by July weather conditions featured the September grain report of the Department of Agriculture, issued today. Favored with good growing temperature and plenty of rain in practically the entire corn belt, the production forecast made a jump of 154,000,000 bushels, bringing the indicated production to 3,186,000,000 bushels, or only 48,000,000 bushels less than last year's crop, the largest ever grown. With continued favorable conditions, this year's production may yet become a record crop. Indications are that most of the crop is now out of danger from frost.

The wheat crop showed a decline of 3,000,000 bushels, with a total of 754,000,000 bushels indicated as this year's harvest. Oats will be a short crop this year, the indicated production having declined 47,000,000 bushels during August, with a total crop of 1,098,000,000 bushels forecast. That is 434,000,000 bushels smaller than last year's crop and 343,000,000 bushels less than the average for the five years previous to last year.

Potatoes showed an increase of 7,000,000 bushels over a month ago, with a total of 323,000,000 bushels, but the crop is almost 100,000,000 bushels smaller than last year, and almost 50,000,000 bushels below the average of the five years previous.

Tobacco production indications showed an increase of 59,000,000 pounds over a month ago, with a total of 948,000,000 pounds. The improvement was confined almost entirely to the Northern tobacco-producing states.

There were only minor changes in the indicated productions of other crops.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Lee and Mr. R. M. Gaither will attend the state fair at Louisville.
